Thursday, 23 October 2008

If you want to make some serious money from pay per install programs, you will need to have some serious traffic on your website. Or, you can choose from several pay per install companies and have more than one for your visitors to choose from. Many of your website visitors will choose more than one and then you've doubled your money. You don't have to limit yourself to just one pay per install company, you can be an affiliate of several. That's where the real money is to be made.

Pay per install is a way for you to install content on your website for your visitors to choose to load onto their computers. This content can be things like files to share, special toolbars, games, and even paid surveys. Choose your content wisely, though, because not every pay per install content will appeal to the visitors of your website, and the ones that aren't making you money are just taking up space that could be used for content that will earn you a few dollars.

Also watch for rogue pay per install companies. Do your research on the companies you are interested in because some of them actually install harmful spyware and parasites to your computer and the computers of your website visitors. There's always a bad apple in the bunch, isn't there? But don't let the rogue companies scare you away from pay per install because there are more good companies than there are bad ones.

Pay per install is just another way for you to make money on the internet, but it might just be the easiest way you'll ever find. Oh, did I mention that you don't have to pay anything to sign up as a pay per install affiliate? What are you waiting for? Go check out pay per install and make yourself some extra cash!
